

SAMMLUNG GOETZ

Information for the disabled on visiting Sammlung Goetz

Dear visitors,

Unfortunately, we must inform you that the Sammlung Goetz is not barrier-free. At the time the building was planned, public access to the exhibition areas was not intended. Ingvild Goetz only thought that the rooms would be used privately. Later, however, the decision was made to open the house to the public. Due to spatial circumstances, conversion of the stairwell would be very difficult (installation of an elevator, for example, is impossible).

Despite this, we would be happy to enable your visit. Please call us and we will make every effort to create an individual solution or alternative for you.
